The bibliography section is divided into four parts: (1) bibliographical guides; (2) newspapers and periodicals; (3) general bibliographical sources; and (4) subject bibliographies that cover history, economics, social life, politics, language, culture, religion, urban and regional development, regional studies, native groups, immigration, ethnic groups, and women. Quebec Studies: A Guide to Reference Sources

This interdisciplinary guide brings together a variety of bibliographies and reference tools in the McGill Library System which are useful for research on Quebec. It is designed to complement the numerous student guides which focus on Canada: Canadian History, Canadian Literature, Canadian Politics and Government, Canadian Economics, Canadian Biography, Native Peoples of Canada, and Canadian Manuscripts and Archives. These contain many general sources which include Quebec in their coverage. In particular, the Canadian Literature guide identifies French Canadian sources and the Canadian History guide contains a large bibliographical section on Quebec history and the regions of Quebec. For this reason, the present guide, while not neglecting history, concentrates more on the sociological and political aspects of Quebec life and culture.

Materials on specific regions of Quebec can be located in MUSE and the card catalogues by searching by subject using the name of the region, e.g. ABITIBI, GASPE PENINSULA, or MONTREAL. When looking for material on a particular topic related to Quebec, search the topic as a sub-heading under the geographical area, e.g. QUEBEC (PROVINCE)--POLITICS AND GOVERNMENT, or under the topic itself, e.g. POLITICAL PARTIES--QUEBEC PROVINCE. To determine precise terminology, consult the Library of Congress Subject Headings (LCSH) list in the reference area.

Theses and dissertations have not been highlighted in a separate section, but sources identifying theses are noted in the annotation. See especially Deschenes (section II.D.2), Aubin (section II.D.1), Cohen (section II.D.10).

Government Documents

Quebec government publications are available for research in the Government Documents Department of the McLennan Library, which serves as a depository for Canadian federal and Quebec provincial government publications. Useful for Quebec studies are two guides prepared by the Government Documents Department entitled Guide to Parliamentary Publications of the Province of Quebec and Quebec Government Publications: A Guide to Sources of Information. The present bibliography does not attempt to duplicate the coverage of reference works and bibliographies published by the Quebec government provided in these two guides. When searching for government publications, you are reminded that most government publications are not listed in MUSE or the card catalogues; the Government Documents Department has a separate catalogue which may be consulted for its holdings.

Special Collections

The Lawrence Lande Collection of Canadiana on the fourth floor of the McLennan Library houses rare Canadiana, mostly pre 1867, among which are many items pertaining to early French Canada. The Department of Rare Books and Special Collections contains a wealth of Quebec material; it also houses the Rodolphe Joubert Collection on French Canada, which consists primarily of twentieth-century material useful for research in such areas as local Quebec history, social history and politics.

All locations for items cited in this bibliography have not been indicated. For additional locations, consult the McGill Union Catalogue or MUSE.

If you have difficulty using this bibliography or the reference sources listed in it, please do not hesitate to ask for assistance from a reference librarian.
